

Because this is too critical for a catalog

Does your distributor really understand your belting needs?

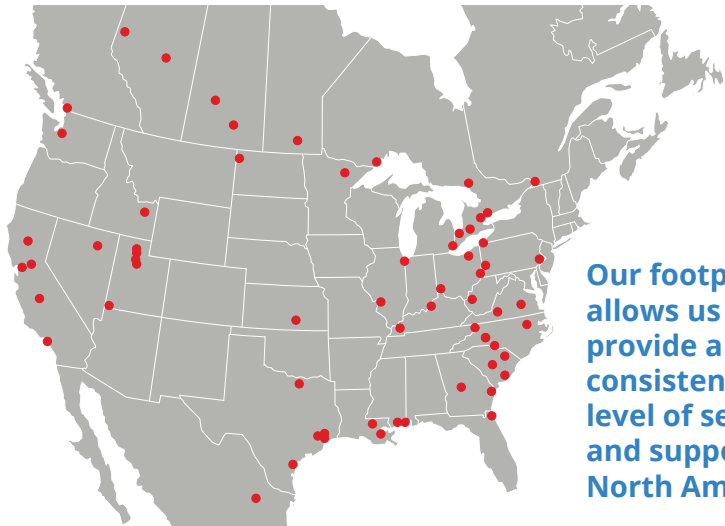

Can your distributor keep this from happening?

Does your distributor know the right hose for your application?

LGG Industrial is a leading provider of fluid handling, sealing, and material conveyance solutions to the North American industrial market. Our commitment to exceptional customer service, depth of technical expertise, and breadth of quality products helps us to create value for our customers by reducing their overall Total Cost of Ownership (TCO). Our product, industry, and application know-how increase operational efficiencies and prevent downtime, while our proactive and value-added services aim to solve problems before they become emergencies.

Our footprint allows us to provide a consistent level of service and support across North America.
